EMMA NEVADA-PALMER

MARRIAGE OF AN AMERICAN NIGHT-INGALE IN PARIS.

Further Particulars of the Brilliant Scene at the Passionist Fathers—Bulgarian Union—Particulars of the Powers Foreign News Notes.

EMMA NEVADA.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Miss Emma Nevada married to Dr. Raymond Palmer, at the church of St. Paul, Easton.

The civil ceremony, as reported, took place at the English embassy, and the religious ceremony was performed by the church of the Passionist Fathers. The bridegroom was Misses Morris, Johnson, Everett and Titus, three pupils of Miss Nevada of Miss Marcella Signor Salvini, the Italian tragedian, was the "best man."

The company at the wedding was large.

American and English society, and the diplomatic society was well represented.

Much interest and sympathy were shown, and the display of flowers and fine dresses was gorgeous.

A large number of notabilities of politics, letters, and the stage were present, including the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Watkinson, Russell, of the Passionist order, rector of St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate Hill, London, and an eloquent address on spiritual life delivered by the Rev. Dr. George Smith, of the Methodist Church, who had a solo, with happy accompaniment.

The wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Athenee.

Miss Emma Nevada, born in New York, twenty-one years ago, has a name of Irish origin on her mother's side. Her talents showed itself very early, and continued to grow during her school days, which she spent at the famous convent of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, New York.

She then began to study music, and began with the famous Miss Marchese in Vienna, a course of instruction which lasted two years and a half.

She then began her debut with great success at Her Majesty's Theatre, London, and at the Alhambra, at Milan, Rome and Naples, evoking universal enthusiasm everywhere, and, finally, in 1888, she appeared at Paris, first at the Opera Comique and afterwards at the Theatre Lyrique, where her interpretation of part of Lucia was especially noteworthy.

Miss Nevada charms the critical public of Paris not only by her superb voice, at which she is a perfect teacher, but also by her charm, manner, but her freedom from affectation and mannerism.

Her father, Dr. Wilson, has accompanied her throughout her series of triumphs.

Dr. Raymond Palmer, a practical physician, is a son of a well known surgeon, and is the author of a book on surgery.

He is a man of great energy and enthusiasm, and is a man of great success, and he is a man of great</

The Atlanta Constitution says the "Mugwumps have flut."

WHEN the Atlanta Constitution says the "Mugwumps have flut," we suppose it means they have "philop."

The National debt was reduced $12,757,965 last month. This leaves the total debt, less available cash items, at $1,524,837,448.57.

At 9:30 a. m., next Wednesday, a charge of 27,000 pounds of dynamite will be exploded in the New York harbor, in an attempt to demolish Flood Rock in Hell Gate. Such an explosion will rock the floods of East river, and it leaves all rivermen there to be on guard.

COMPTROLLER MILTON J. DURHAM and General John S. Williams have declared their intention of not being a candidate for Governor, but "nary a word" have we heard from General Simon Bolivar Buckner on the subject. It doesn't take a person of very acute observation to divine which way the "wind is blowing."

It can't be a case of "sour grapes" with any of the candidates after next Saturday. It's plain to any one that they all want something. Like the fox in the fable, they have all been doing some prettily lively "jumping" for the past month, and are likely to keep it up the rest of this week. Some of them will get the "grapes," but the all-absorbing question at the present time is, "Who'll be the lucky ones?"

The tobacco merchants of Louisville are congratulating themselves on the increase in their business for the past nine months. The sales at the various warehouses for this period have been larger than ever before, and the reputation of the place as a market for the weed has increased in proportion. The tobacco manufacturers of the city have also increased, three factories having been established, all of which are in a flourishing condition.

Advertise.

The great Peter Cooper is credited with the following rare bit of common sense: "In all towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise, even if nothing more than a card telling his name and the business in which he is engaged. It not only pays the advertiser, but lets the people at a distance know that the town you reside in has a prosperous class of business men. As the seed is sown so it recompenses. Never pull down the sign while you intend to do business, for it often indicates that your firm, commercially, is broken. The judicious advertiser will receive in return dollars for every one invested in the columns of a local paper."

COMPTROLLER MILTON J. DURHAM has declared he has no intention at present of becoming a candidate for Governor of this State. In an interview the other day with a correspondent of the Louisville Commercial, he said: "I have no thought of being a candidate for Governor. I like the position which I now hold and expect to continue in it for years if it be the pleasure of President Cleveland. The duties of the office are important and my highest ambition is to discharge them faithfully toward the country and satisfactorily to the administration. While I take a natural interest in the aspirations of my Kentucky friends, and derive pleasure from serving them, I have no plan in view relating to the Governorship, nor to any other position in Kentucky."

KENTUCKY NEWS.

The average daily attendance at the Lexington city schools is 1,840.

The Scott County farmers have about finished housing their tobacco. The crop is said to be a fine one.

T. J. Randolph, well-known, as part owner of Annie Woodcock, Socks and other race horses, died at Lexington, last Friday.

During September, $3,490 worth of property was destroyed by fire at Lexington. The insurance on amount amounted to $3,800.

H. C. Clark, recently convicted of false swearing and sentenced to one year in jail at Louisville has been pardoned by Governor Knott.

Mattie Anderson and Charles Carr, aged respectively sixteen and nineteen years, were refused a marriage license at Lexington last Friday. Mattie is part Indian, but is a dark mulatto, while Charles is a very black negro.

At Central City, last Friday, Tom Wood was shot twice and seriously wounded by Frank Horick. They had attended Self Bros' Circus that day, drank too much beer, and quarreled over some trivial matter. Horick escaped. Sam Brown, a police officer was shot in the hand during the melee.

The "Truth Publishing Company" has been incorporated at Louisville. The object of the company is the capital stock of $10,000, to publish a Sunday school paper called Truth. Young E. Allison Ben H. Ridgely and George W. Smith are the incorporators. The paper will will make its appearance next Sunday.

FREDERICK HASSEAUKE.

Noted Journalist, Linguist and Author Passes Away in Paris.

FREDERICK HASSEAUKE.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—At last the long expected message of sorrow has flashed across the cable, and the friends of Frederick Hassauke have been grieved beyond the world of suffering and toil.

He died in Paris at 1 o'clock after an illness of several months. For the past few weeks it had been known that recovery was not to be expected, and friends of the dying man have been narrowly watching the end.

Col. Leopold Markbreit was found at his desk in the sub-treasury in the government building. Before him lay the fatal message which read as follows:

"PARIS, Oct. 8.

"Dear Markbreit:

"I am sorry to inform you that

"The reporter inquired of Mr. Markbreit if any funeral arrangements had been made, to which that gentleman replied: "Not yet; but a suitable service will be held in Paris and seats have been secured as possible."

He went to Europe three years ago to obtain a period of rest from labor and to effect a cure of his disease, melanosis, but without success. Medical operations have been performed by him from the effects of the last which he died in Paris. He has been married three times, and leaves two children.

There are four German newsmen in America that have given stamp and dignity to the Teutonic race in their locality. They are published respectively in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

One of these is Karl Hassauke, who wrote the article which took the name of it was Fred Hassauke who made it. A population of 300,000 Cincinnati has 100,000 citizens of German descent. There is, therefore, scope for several journals published in their language.

For years the Germans of Cincinnati have been Republican, unless the temperance question comes up, or something else that overcomes their love of news of personal liberty.

Mr. Hassauke was a member of the party to the Republican side when that party was first organized. Previous to that he had been solidly Democratic. He wrought many changes in the party, though.

They used to listen to his speeches, and even threatened him with mob violence.

On those occasions his keen wit and quick resources always failed to bring the meeting to a dead heat. He was invited to address a meeting in connection with Chief Justice Chase. A great uproar arose, and Hassauke was called names and fight seemed imminent.

"Those who interrupted this meeting can not be Democrats, for true Democracy bears liberty of speech; they cannot be Americans, for Americans would not outvote us. We are a nation of honest, patriotic, law-abiding citizens, and our liberty of speech, still less can they be Kansanians, for the generosity and hospitality with which Kansuckians greet the stranger is proverbial."

Mr. Hassauke was an Austrian by birth, but came to America in 1848, and has consequently now only a full past fifty, far too young for so brilliant a scholar and writer to be dying. When only sixteen, at school, he plumped with all a boy's fancy into the ranks of the revolutionaries of '48.

The brave impracticalists who led them were defeated and the youth fled to America.

The liberty-loving spirit came with him, and he was crushed with the old ardor into the congenital gout, which ruined his life.

Lincoln appointed him United States minister to Ecuador, and he thanked the president for giving him the "highest office in the gift of the nation."—Quoted in the Times.

He died in Quito, Ecuador, leaving nearly ten thousand feet above sea level.

Mr. Hassauke was an accomplished linguist, speaking and writing with elegant accuracy French, Spanish, German, Italian and English. He was a man of great strength that of most native born Americans. His strength was both in tongue and pen. He wrote a powerful novel, the "Secrets of the Amazon," a well-told "Four Years Among the Spanish Americans," and a volume of poems in German. His literary style was polished and keen.

His attention was early directed to the abuses and swindling to which immigrants to America were subjected in New York. He agitated the subject persistently, and early and late, until the New York legislature righted the wrong by law.

When a youth he was very poor. His early struggle with poverty was the source of the romance. It is sad.

Mr. Hassauke was a man of very fascinating manners and magnetic presence.

The stock market was showing some signs of the effects of yesterday's disasters. First prices for Northwest and New York Cent. air were 1/2 per cent. lower, and the same for the Western Pacific, preferred unchanged. St. Paul, M. & T. and Louisville & Nashville 1/4 higher. The stock market was 1/2 per cent. up to 1/2 per cent., while Lackawanna went up 1/2 per cent. but the advance was obscured before the middle of the day. The market was 1/2 per cent. lower, reaction followed, while the market was 1/2 per cent. up. The market was flat. Jersey Central was a marked exception to the general rule, declining in the early dealings and advancing later, while the general market was weak. The market was dead quiet, and at 11 o'clock it dull and heavy.

The import of foreign merchandise at this port for the month of September was valued at $64,094, and of dry goods, $1,092,041.
